TEAM RIVALRY GROWING INTENSE.

Hustling for Y. M. C. A.
Fund at Scottdale is Lively.

THE MILLS NOT IN LEAD YET

Most Violent Electric Storm In Years—Gale at Noon and Caused
Fear—Funeral of Mrs. Philo Wright Taken Place at Huffman.

Special to The Courier.
SCOTSDALE, June 28.—In the Y. M. C. A. building fund campaign the rivalry is growing intense. Capt. C. Leo Mollinger's team B. is in first place with Capt. John Stamm in second place from the Old Meadow mills and running close with Capt. W. H. Olmgrow's team that is in the Frick office. Stamm is making things count, and has a big lead over the Scottdale mills team and in his own mills. Several of the crews got into the game better yesterday and it looks as if they will make Stamm hustle to preserve his lead. Olmgrow is intent upon swinging clear past the mill team and declares that the Frick team can do it. Mollinger's team is calm and confident that they can hold their lead among the business people. However, it is just as likely as not that there will be some surprise as Robert Gove's team, J. H. Gordon's, W. F. Stauffer's, James McClellan's, J. E. Thastman's are busy although not in the leading three of any of them. The clock showed $16,101.00 last evening. The attendance at luncheon last evening surpassed any evening yet. The place do resistance was cherry pie, served in thirds, and a full sized regulation hunting case pie to start with. The other features of the menu were solid and substantial to work on. Those who served last evening's supper were Mrs. J. P. Strickler, Mrs. J. T. Keithley, Mrs. William Anderson, Mrs. E. F. DoWitt, Mrs. A. W. Strickler, Mrs. O. I. Hess, Mrs. George Hodges, Mrs. C. A. Bloom, Mrs. W. G. Cope, Mrs. Charles Warrick, Mrs. Lee Lewellyn, Mrs. W. S. Leasing, Miss Nora McFarland and Miss Alice McCoubins.

A Violent Storm.
The most spectacular and violent electrical storm, accompanied by a heavy downpour, visited this locality at noon yesterday and for more than an hour nervous people were alarmed as one flash after another of the lightning glinted violently from the sky, followed by heavy crashes of thunder. The noonday sun was hidden by black clouds and the flash of the lightning was made more terrifying by the darkness. The telephone and telegraph wires, which are in a network over Pittsburgh street and Broadway blazed and crackled from the discharges of electricity that struck them. However, thunderbolts seemed to come roaring and smoking to the ground, with a flash that left the eyes dazzled and blinding. From noon until almost 2 o'clock the storm continued, and there has not been another such a storm for length and violence here in years. The rainfall was also very heavy and washed the streets clear of debris and filth and made them impassable for most people. Some fairly severe hail, from storm and the heat they gained by it was the fact that rainwater in large quantities dashed down heavily from the clouds with a particularly penetrating effect when applied to clothing. The lightning crippled the industrial plants somewhat but no great damage was shown.

In the country the storm was also marked by violence and wheat was being down, cornfields furrowed by washings and general damage done. Trees were struck by lightning in a number of places.

Funeral of Mrs. Wright.
The funeral of Mrs. Anna May Wright, wife of P. Wright, of Brownstown, who died on Saturday after a lingering illness, aged 35 years, took place on Monday forenoon, with services at the late residence in charge of Rev. J. L. Undergraph, pastor of the Church of God, Mt. Pleasant, with burial at the Huffman Cemetery, near Warren Run, where Rev. W. H. Guyer, pastor of the Alverton Church of God, held the services. The deceased was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel L. Rhodes, well known people of South Huntingdon township, now deceased. She leaves her husband, who is a contractor of the firm of Wright & Vance, and five children, Clyde, Lawrence, Philo F. Jr., and Myrl and Emma. She also leaves a number of brothers and sisters. The brothers are H. P. Rhodes and Lawrence Rhodes of Jacobs Creek, George Rhodes of Scottdale, and Herman, Earl and Glen Rhodes of Jacobs Creek. The sisters are Edith, wife of Nelson (Jimmie) of Connelville; Lucy, wife of Harry Robertson of McKeesport; Alice, wife of Mr. Schultz of St. Clairsville; and Lillian, wife of John Guyana of Huntingdon. Mr. Wright, the husband, is a son of the late George W. Wright, of South Huntingdon, and Mrs. Mary E. Wright, who now lives at Alverton.

Demand Increases for Tona Vita

No other preparation has ever been sold in America for which there is such a tremendous demand, as "Tona Vita." The medicine was unknown in this country until a few months ago, and today the sale of the tonic is so large that it has been impossible to prepare it fast enough to supply the sudden and great demand. Druggists from all over the country are sending in wires, about as follows: "Tush more 'Tona Vita.' Last shipment all gone. Sale tremendous."

No medicine could be so tremendously successful unless it had a mission to accomplish, and was accomplishing that mission. "Tona Vita" is accomplishing its mission. It is making tired out, debilitated, nervous men and women, happier, healthier and better prepared to cope with life. Nervous debility is the curse of this age. It is produced by the strain of modern life. The symptoms of disease are little vitality or ambition; tired, dragging feeling of both mind and body; nervousness and depression of spirits; stomach and liver trouble; constipation, headaches, poor circulation, and susceptibility to coughs and colds. "Tona Vita" is restoring thousands of this miserable condition. It will positively do this, where there is not some serious of genuine trouble, in a remarkably short time. The very first dose will bring improvement, and each following dose adds health and strength or the price is returned by our recognized agent. Don't drag around, half dead, any longer. What "Tona Vita" is doing for thousands, it will do for you.

"Lee's Rhubarb Laxative, the assistant preparation, is the finest family laxative in the world. The natural medicinal qualities of rhubarb—nature's purest and best laxative, are obtained in this medicine. Lee's Rhubarb Laxative will not harm the weakest constitution and is therefore ideal for children. It is very pleasant to the taste. A. A. Clarke has the agency in Connelville for these two great preparations."

Georgian Bay to Welcome Wrights

F. W. Wright, President of the Wright-Metzler Company, left this morning for Canada by way of Stirling field and Cleveland. Mrs. Wright and their two sons, Dana and Frank, accompanied him as far as Springfield, and will visit there and in Newark. Mr. Wright will join his brother, W. W. Wright in Cleveland Thursday night. They will set forth with a party of sportsmen from that city for the Georgian Bay district. The objective point of the party is to hunt one of the 30,000 islands in the region and do some real fishing. The party will return to Cleveland and then return. Mr. Wright will be in Connelville shortly after July 15 because his business interests here demand his personal attention around that time.

New Greenwood Residence.
The new brick residence which is being erected on Ninth street, Greenwood, by A. B. Pfeiffer, is about completed. When finished it will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Work.

Politics and Pillifications.

Lieutenant Governor George W. Clark of Iowa will be a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination next year.

Pleasant A. Stovall, the Savannah editor, is mentioned as a possible candidate for United States senator from Georgia.

The women's club in Colorado have started a movement to nominate Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker for United States senator.

Joboken, N. J., will hold a special election on June 27 to decide whether or not the city should be governed by commission.

Representative Thurston of the First Pennsylvania district is the oldest member in the house in point of service, having served continuously for seven years.

Judge W. C. O'Hear seems the most likely candidate for the Republican nomination for governor of Kentucky. The nomination is to be made early next month.

In offering himself for re-election, Senator Burton of Oregon proposes to spend no money, make no speeches and solicit no votes.

The Woodrow Wilson League is to give a dollar dinner in Newark next week in honor of Governor Wilson. In appreciation of the work done during his administration and in recognition of the "dawn of the era" in the politics of New Jersey under his leadership.

Congressman Robert F. Broussard of the Third Louisiana district has announced his candidacy for the United States senate for the term beginning March 4, 1935, to be voted on at the Democratic State primary this summer. His opponents will be Governor Sanders and Congressman Lugo.

Judge W. P. Green, who has been elected to Congress from the Ninth Ohio district, has been on the bench for fifteen years. He is a native of Connecticut and a graduate of Oberlin.

Ohio Girl Believed to Be Victim Of Poison and Her Stepmother Suspected of the Crime.

DELAWARE, O., June 28.—The death of Merle Henkle, one of the popular young ladies of this city, may result in a criminal trial of a sensational nature. The girl's stepmother, Mrs. Jesse Way Henkle, is suspected by the authorities of having caused the girl's death by poisoning. She gave her some wine, it is alleged, shortly before the girl died. Mrs. Henkle, under arrest, has been released on bonds pending the result of an examination of the girl's stomach and intestines. The Henkle girl was taken from her home, shown in the cut herewith, to a hospital, where she died.

First Aid Work to Be Demonstrated

Special to The Courier.
WASHINGTON, June 28.—In the line with its effort to reduce the number of deaths in the coal mines of the United States, the Bureau of Mines will hold a National Miners' Life Saving Demonstration, on Saturday, September 16, in Arsenal Park, Pittsburgh. President Taft, Secretary of the Interior Fisher, and Dr. Joseph A. Holmes, Director of the Bureau of Mines, will attend and speak to the miners. The Bureau of Mines will have the co-operation of the Pittsburgh Coal Operators' Association and the American Red Cross. It is expected that between 25,000 and 30,000 miners will attend and that many of the important coal companies will send their trained first aid and rescue corps to take part in the exhibition. Already a number of teams have entered and are in training for the event, which promises to be the most important gathering of miners ever assembled.

Arsenal Park is the site of the testing station of the Bureau of Mines and the experts of the bureau are busy arranging for a unique program. The arrangement for the first demonstration are the hands of H. M. Wilson, engineer in charge of the Bureau of Mines, Pittsburgh, Major Charles Lynch, Medical Corps, U. S. A., in charge of the first aid department of the Red Cross and Dr. M. E. Shields, of Scranton, Pa., both of whom are pioneers in this movement, are assisting. The first aid to the injured workmen will be one of the features of the day. The teams from the various coal mines will not contest but will give exhibitions of their skill in draining injured miners from the mines and binding the wounds and fractures. Many of these teams have been instructed in first aid by the surgeons of the American Red Cross and also by the rescue corps of the Bureau of Mines.

Between 5,000 to 8,000 miners are injured each year in the United States, some so seriously that they die perhaps months afterward, and others are so maimed that they are cripples for life. The work of the first aid to the injured teams is to give the proper emergency treatment so that injuries will be lessened in seriousness, and some of the fatalities perhaps avoided. In the Anthracite region of Pennsylvania the first aid work has been highly developed through the good work of the American Red Cross and many lives have been saved through the prompt and efficient work of the members of the various corps. This movement has become so popular in the anthracite region that annual field contests between the teams are held each year in the presence of thousands of spectators. Prizes are given to the winners by the American Red Cross and the operators join in with contributions of badges and cups. Following the example of the anthracite region and directly as the result of the instructions in first aid to the injured and in the helmet rescue work being introduced in all parts of the United States by the rescue corps and stations of the Bureau of Mines, teams have recently been organized in the Bitu-meous mining districts throughout the country. The members of these teams are eager to show their skill and will take part in the exhibition. In addition to the exhibition by the first aid teams the miners will witness gas and coal dust explosions in miniature which will be staged in the great explosives gallery of the Bureau of Mines. In Arsenal Park there will also be a temporary gallery which will resemble a coal mine. This will be placed at the bottom of a natural amphitheater, giving a clear view to thousands of persons. There will be a gas explosion in this play mine; miners will be entombed, and one of the Government Rescue Corps in oxygen helmet will enter and save the men. One side of the miniature mine will be open its entire length in order that the onlookers may witness everything that happens in an underground horror except the loss of life. The famous oxygen helmets that members of the Rescue Corps of the bureau wear and which have been instrumental in saving a number of lives, will be on exhibition and explained to the miners. The oxygen reviving apparatus which automatically takes the poisonous gases from the lungs of an asphyxiated miner and fills them with oxygen will also be demonstrated. This apparatus has already brought back to consciousness a number of miners given up as dead.

COULDN'T FILL ORDERS.

Ruling of Court Causes Latrobe Residents to Do Without Ice.
GREENSBURG, Pa., June 28.—(Special.)—A peculiar situation arose in Latrobe on Monday over the ruling in the Westmoreland county courts. The Latrobe Ice Company broke some machinery and appealed to the Pittsburgh Brewing Company and the Independent Brewing Company for ice to help them fill orders.

On account of the ruling of the Westmoreland county court at the last session of license court they were compelled to refuse any assistance and therefore the people of Latrobe were forced to do without ice for domestic purposes until the machinery at the ice plant could be repaired.

HYOMEL Cures Catarrh Without Stomach Dosing, or Money Back.
Yes, dear reader, catarrh can be cured; but not by pouring vile, nauseating drugs into the stomach. You've got to kill the catarrh germs, that's all there is to it, before you can cure catarrh.

And catarrh germs thrive, flourish and multiply in the nose and throat. Can you kill these tough and persistent little health destroyers by swallowing pills or nostrum? Any physician will tell you it cannot be done. HYOMEL (pronounced High-ome) is a germ killing, mucous air which, when breathed either through the mouth or nose, will kill catarrh germs and soothe and heal the inflamed and mutilated membrane promptly. It gives relief in two minutes. HYOMEL is such a powerful germ destroyer that it penetrates every fold and crevice of the mucous membrane of the nose and throat. A complete outfit, which includes inhaler, a bottle of HYOMEL and simple instructions for use, costs $1.00. Should you need a second bottle of HYOMEL the price is only 50c. Lead and druggists everywhere and A. A. Clarke sells HYOMEL.

JAPANESE TIDBITS.

Fillet of Raw Fish, Wholes and Rice.
Locusts Among Them.
One of the great food delicacies of Japan is sashimi, a fillet of raw fish served with soy and condiments. This dish, though highly recommended by both Japanese and European medical authorities, is pronounced queer or uncivilized by those not born to the custom of eating it.

When these critics are reminded, however, of their eating live oysters with gusto it occurs to them, says the Oriental Review, that the one is at least more artistic in appearance than the other, though both may be equally palatable and nutritious.

It is likely that very few English people know that the fisher folk along the Devonshire coast are accustomed to eat liver, an edible seaweed, and so think it very odd that the Japanese should use certain seaweeds as an article of diet.

Pears, burdock roots, fly buds, lotus roots and bamboo sprouts are among the Japanese vegetables not enjoyed by occidental peoples, while the chrysanthemum of the silkworm, rice locusts, the octopus, whelks and sea slugs eaten in some parts of China and Japan are sure to shock their fast sensibilities.

And yet the most civilized epicures relish snails and frogs' legs, which are just as odd in their way as those varieties of animal food mentioned above. Shark's fin soup, edible birds' nest and true cured eggs are far famed Chinese luxuries, the last item of which is equal to the strongest animated cheese in its power over the olfactory nerves.

TESTING AN EGG.

Many Ways to Detect Staleness Besides Smell and Taste.

It does not require a very discriminating palate to detect an old egg from a new one, says a correspondent of the New York Sun. The former has a musty flavor that the latter never has, and the mustiness may range from a slight taint to a very pronounced one. It is always noticeable in stale eggs.

If any one wishes to verify the judgment of his palate, the following tests may be used:

- 1.—It is almost impossible to peel the shell from a fresh hard boiled egg without having some of the white come away with it.
- 2.—A stale egg cannot be beaten to a froth.
- 3.—When a fresh egg is broken into a dish the yolk stands up and the white does not spread, whereas in a stale egg the yolk lies flat, and the white seems watery.
- 4.—The shell of an egg after a certain length of time loses its chalky appearance and becomes shiny.
- 5.—The air space in the large end of a newly laid egg is about half an inch in diameter, and as the egg ages this space grows larger. In storage eggs it sometimes extends to one-fourth the length. An expert can very closely approximate the age of an egg by examining this space. This is known as candling and is done by holding the egg in a beam of light. A simple test is to hard boil the egg and notice the relative size of the space.

Jokai's Joke.

At a banquet held in his honor in Toronto, Maurice Jokai was called upon to propose the toast of "The Ladies." He made an excellent speech, during which he continually toyed with the brown curls upon his forehead. Finally he said: "I raise my glass in honor of the gracious ladies of Toronto. May they all live until my hair grows gray." His audience drank to the toast, but it was easy to see by the faces of the ladies present that they did not think much of the compliment. Jokai rose again from his seat and took from his head a magnificent brown wig, showing an entirely bald head beneath it. "My hair," he added, "will never grow gray." And the ladies, who had not known of his baldness, were more than pacified.

The SKY PIRATE

by GARRETT P. SERVIS.

Copyright, by FRANK A. PUNCH COMPANY

"As Grayman recalled what he had heard and read of Payton a horrible sensation came over him. He must be rescued at once! He must temporize with this villain and get the better of him when he could. What harm to promise the ten millions? In his heart he felt that he would willingly give them to have his daughter once more in his arms. In the turmoil of his spirit he lost a whole minute. Suddenly a sharp ring came, and the voice, very grave, said:

"Come! No fooling, Mr. Grayman. I have your daughter right here in my hands. No power under God can save her if you do not answer me instantly."

"I dare not say 'no,'" thought the millionaire, "for all this may be true. I'll answer 'yes,' and then we shall see."

Accordingly he spoke the word.

"I congratulate you on your good sense, Mr. Grayman," came the instant response. "and on your fatherly affection. Have no fear now. Helen shall not be harmed unless you attempt treachery. Remember that! Now I'll tell you how to proceed. In two days go to the bluff overlooking the Mohawk river, attribes Hill. I'll be there, and we will arrange for the payment of the money and the simultaneous delivery of the girl at another place. You may come armed if you like, but you must have no friends on the ground, and you must not come in at night. You will meet alone, man to man, and I pledge you my word, which I have never broken, that no personal injury will be offered to you. I have your daughter, which is all I need. I shall not gain, but lose, by offering any violence to you. Simply remember that there must be no treachery. Goodbye."

Mr. Grayman called out, "Where are you?" But this time there was no response. The conversation was ended.

The millionaire sank back into his chair, his thoughts still in a whirl. But he could not get away from the conviction that his daughter was really the pirate's prisoner. The question was how to rescue her. There must be no false steps. The second had apparently placed himself in his hands by giving him a rendezvous. But there might be danger both to himself and to his daughter in trying to outwit him. He must consult the chief of police.

"Do you know Alfonso Payton?" Mr. Grayman asked as soon as the commissioner entered. The latter stared dumfounded.

"Payton hasn't got her, has he? Then God help you!" blurted out.

"Yes, I fear that that is the situation. I have just had a talk with the outlaw, who called me up by wireless from nowhere and demanded $10,000,000 ransom."

"Ten million dollars!" cried the commissioner.

"Yes, $10,000,000," Mr. Grayman responded testily. "Do you think that that would break me, or do you think that my daughter is not worth it?"

"But my friends!" he said, laughing. "They have laid up for the night, not being as familiar with the woods as I am, but they'll be along in the course of the morning. Send, I beg you, for your wraps. You cannot do this how charming the woods are at this hour. Every bird is awake, and the trout are leaping for joy."

Miss Grayman concealed her disappointment and sent Susan for her wraps. Once more in Payton's company, she felt her spirits revive. He was more entertaining than ever. And the air, the water and the forest were equally delightful—cool, fresh, fragrant and musical. It was a new life for Miss Grayman, and she began to feel the rest of it. Her thought of yesterday came to her again, and once more her face flushed.

If her friends really had intended to throw her into the company of Commodore Brown and get her interested in him in this unconventional way before a formal presentation she was hardly disposed to find fault with them for the indiscretion.

He paddled them up the stream to a pool below the rapids. The trout were flashing on all sides in the bright morning air, and here and there along the shore strange birds rose and fluttered off at their approach.

They landed in a little bight among the rocks and stepped out on the elastic bed of brown pine needles.

"See here," and he pointed to a depression alongside a huge stump; "a bear slept there last night."

"A bear?"

"Yes. Look! here are some of its hairs. And just come this way a bit," and he approached a sandy spot on the shore. "Do you see those hoof prints? Three deer have taken a drink here before you were up."

"Oh, I should so love to see a real wild deer!"

"Then perhaps I'll show you one before you are a day older. And if you are skillful in the sports of Diana we may have some venison of your killing."

"I believe I can fire a gun without shutting my eyes," said Miss Grayman, laughing. "But of course we shall postpone the proof until the arrival of the others."

"Of course, and they ought to arrive at any moment now."

Upon their return one of the men she had seen on the Chamelion ap-ports—and then he talks ransom with their friends from heaven knows where. He leaves no track and no clues in the air. I've never had to deal with him myself, for this is the first time that he has ventured into New York, but I've heard all about him from different parts of the country."

"He gave me a precise address where to meet him," said Grayman. "And do you think you'll catch him there?"

"How can he hope to get the money if he doesn't meet me?"

"Ah, I see that you are not up to the tricks of these crooks. Payton will watch the place from his aeroplane like a hawk. If he sees any signs of a trap you might as well try to catch a bird by putting salt on its tail."

"What then? Would you have me tamely pay over $10,000,000 and not try to catch the wretch?"

"I don't say that," the commissioner responded thoughtfully. "But if it were an ordinary sum I might."

"Triumph!" exclaimed Mr. Grayman. "Then you won't try to help me?"

"On the contrary, I will. But we have got to go to work with extreme caution."

"Tell me your plan, then."

"I've got no plan yet. It needs thinking over."

"Think quick, then, and you can name your price if you show me a way to get this infamous reptile into my power. But before and above all I must have my daughter safe in my hands."

"That's just the difficulty. You have two days, you say. Tribes Hill is within four hours' journey by rail from New York. Give me until tomorrow to arrange my plan."

Mr. Grayman curbed his impatience and assented.

"Remember, absolute secrecy," he said.

"I shall remember," the commissioner replied. "Expect me tomorrow at Alfonso Payton's house until tomorrow to arrange my plan."

proached and handed a slip of paper to Payton. He read it and, frowning, snatched his fingers, exclaiming, half under his breath: "By Jove, that's really too bad! I am sorry to have to announce a slight mishap, which while it accounts for the delay of our friends, also makes it certain that they cannot reach us this morning."

The blood fled from Miss Grayman's face. She felt an inexplicable premonition of evil.

"Oh, don't let it distress you," said Payton cheerfully. "Here, please read this dispatch, just come by wireless. I have electric communication with all parts, so we are not lost, you see."

He held the paper before her, covering the lower corner where the signature would be with his thumb.

"The secret isn't open yet, you know," he said with a deprecating smile, "and of course I can't let you see the name."

She read.

Brown, Camp Bear:

"I am in order that you may get the goods overhauled with pendulous branches beside an enormous fallen cornered rock which she had noticed and admired during their former trips. Here they sat down on the sweet scented moss and began to eat."

"I'd like to know where Pettycorn is," said Miss Grayman. "I never heard of the place before. I suppose it is some little backwoods town. Commodore Brown said he could go there in an hour and a half, and I suppose that means that it is at least 500 miles away. We're somewhere in New York state, I think, and I am still inclined to believe that it is the Adirondacks. But what's the use of guessing? We shall know in a few hours. Let's take a stroll. There seems to be a kind of path here. Perhaps we shall discover something interesting."

"But it might have been made by the bear," said Susan, in alarm.

"Oh, I'm not much afraid of bears," Commodore Brown said, that they were not dangerous. "Indeed, I'd rather like to see one. The bears in the zoological gardens never interested me. But here it's different—here where they live. And just think, we may see a deer! Come on, and don't be afraid. I'll go ahead."

Suddenly, as they entered a little interval where the ground was more solid, a curious noise drew their startled eyes to a huge animal which stood regarding them. Its height seemed prodigious, and its huge, long-nosed head was crowned with enormous horns. Its eyes glared as it stamped fiercely with its forefoot.

"It looks like a moose," whispered Miss Grayman. "And I've heard that moose are dangerous."

This one certainly looked dangerous, and the girls were petrified with fear as it advanced a few steps toward them. They stood fast simply because they were unable to move a muscle.

The animal stamped savagely again, glared at them for a moment and then, apparently changing its mind, turned and trotted awfully away until it had disappeared in the forest.

"Oh, do let's go back," said Susan, shivering with fright. "What an awful beast!"

"But Miss Grayman's courage had returned with the disappearance of the danger, and she insisted upon pushing ahead a little further."

"Look! There yonder are some beautiful red flowers," she said, "and I must have them. Don't you see these animals are not dangerous, after all? Come, and we'll turn back as soon as I get the flowers."

THEY WERE UNABLE TO MOVE A MUSCLE

When they reached the spot that she had indicated they saw ahead another comparatively open place, and immediately Miss Grayman exclaimed: "What in the world does that mean. I wonder? Somebody has been digging here? And there's a picture, at least that's what I think they call it."

She pointed to a spot under a great hemlock where the ground had been turned up. The work was either very fresh or unfinished, and as she had said, a picture leaned against the trunk of the tree.

"We must see what it is," said Miss Grayman, her curiosity singularly awakened.

But at this moment a crackling in the bushes sounded behind them. Greatly startled, they stopped in their tracks and looked fearfully around. Nothing was in sight, but the sounds became louder and nearer.

"Oh, good Lord!" cried Susan, nearly sinking to the ground. "That terrible beast has been circling round and is going to run at us again!"

Miss Grayman felt her courage also ebb away, but to their partial relief Indian John appeared, running after them and waving his hands as if in warning.

"Go!" he exclaimed in a guttural voice and with a look that was by no means reassuring. "Must not come here! Big bears here! Eat you!"

As he spoke he laid his brown hand on Miss Grayman's shoulder. Indian John shook it off. A placating smile came over the Indian's features, but he continued his insistence and, finally placing himself in front of the girls, pushed them back.

"Must go!" he repeated. "Can't stay here! Much danger! Much bear! Go, quick!"

"What have they been digging here for if there's danger?"

Indian John's face assumed a most menacing expression, and he exclaimed fiercely, "Go, go!"

He no longer hesitated to lay his hands upon them, and they were powerless in his grasp. Besides, his mere look now terrified them.

As he hurried them along he suddenly asked, "What here for?"

"Oh, I have only been gathering flowers!" replied Miss Grayman, now feeling to pacify him. "Look at them," and she showed those that she had collected.

"The Indian scarcely glanced at them. "Plenty flowers," he said, "near lodge. Dangerous to come here. Bad bears!"

"Then he urged them on still faster, and before they were aware of their approach to the stream they found themselves beside the canoe. Indian John unconsciously pushed them in and without another word took the paddle and carried them swiftly back to the lodge."

Mrs. Williams hurried down to meet them, while the two women stood in the kitchen door curiously regarding them.

"Oh, dear," she said, "I have been so alarmed on your account! Indian John came and told me that he had seen the canoe on the shore of the creek and your trucks leading off into the wilderness. I was so afraid that you would be lost, and the bears back in the woods, and very dangerous. I sent him after you as fast as he could run. I'm so glad that you're back safe."

"Indian John has been very rude," said Miss Grayman.

"But, please, Miss Grayman, don't blame him," protested Mrs. Williams. "He is only an Indian, and he was acting under orders that were intended for your safety. Dear me! If you had been killed, what should I have said when Commodore Brown and his friends returned?"

The good lady actually shed a few tears at this terrible thought. But she was not so perfect a dissembler as her master, and Miss Grayman still had doubts. Her suspicions, once aroused, were not to be so easily put aside.

"What are they digging out there in the woods for?" she asked.

Mrs. Williams was not adroit enough to conceal the startled look that flashed over her face, but in a moment she said, with assumed concern: "Why, Miss Grayman! Did you go as far as that? It's the place where they've been burying the carcasses of an immense bear that one of the men shot in the day before yesterday. The skin is in the drying shed now. Indeed, you were in danger!"

Miss Grayman only tossed her head. She was getting more and more suspicious, and yet without any definite ground that she could explain to herself. Why should the fact that somebody had been digging in the woods concern her? She couldn't tell, and yet somebody who couldn't help thinking about it. It was a strange place for such a thing to be. If she had known what that digging meant! She did not even guess, and yet her woman's instinct had warned her that something wrong lurked there.

"Come," she said to Susan; "we'll go to our room, where we shall be safe, since the forest is so dangerous."

And without another word she left the crystalline Mrs. Williams and ascended to her apartments. Once there, she sat down and tried to think it out. Why had she been so disturbed in the forest? She couldn't tell. It was so confused and indefinite. Then the thought of her friends returned, and she glanced at her watch. It was after 1 o'clock.

"Good gracious!" she exclaimed, springing to her feet. "They ought to be here now. They may arrive at any moment!"

And she threw open the window. But her watching was in vain, and in a little while Mrs. Williams knocked at her door and announced that the midday meal was on the table.

"It must be a great strain on your patience that they do not come," she said, "and it is dreadfully annoying. But sometimes when an acre breaks down it takes a long time for repairs. Commodore Brown had an accident happen to the Chamelion a few weeks ago, and they were two days fixing it up."

"Indeed," said Miss Grayman. "I hope they won't be so long this time. But, tell me, why do they call the negro the Chamelion? It's a queer name, and yet it seems to me I have heard it before."

"I don't know really," replied Mrs. Williams, a shade of whistling fitting across her face, while she thought, to herself, "What a fool I have been!"

Then she continued quickly, "Commodore Brown is a very romantic man, full of the most beautiful ideas. I suppose it was one of his fancies. You should see what delightful friends he has who come here—ladies and gentlemen—and I tell you they make the place gay."

Mrs. Grayman's suspicions were lulled again, and they finished the meal in good spirits, for Mrs. Williams, circling around the table and offering all sorts of delicacies for Miss Grayman, proved herself at the same time almost as entertaining a story teller as Payton himself.

But in the afternoon trouble came again. Weary of waiting, Miss Grayman had proposed to Susan another trip in the canoe. But to her intense displeasure Mrs. Williams insisted that either she or Indian John should take the paddle.

"But I can paddle myself, as you very well know," said Miss Grayman.

Over 2,000 Satisfied Spectacle Wearers in Fayette County—My Record in Less Than One Year's Time.

THIS IS THE BEST OFFER I HAVE EVER MADE TO THE PEOPLE OF CONNELLSVILLE.

DR. M. B. BURSTAN.

Only One More Week.

AS A GREAT MANY PEOPLE WERE DISAPPOINTED HAVE DECIDED TO CONTINUE THIS WONDERFUL OFFER FOR ONE MORE WEEK BEGINNING MONDAY AND WILL FIT YOUR EYES WITH $3.50 OR $5.00 "STEVENS S. Q." GOLD FILLED EYE GLASSES FOR $1. EXAMINATION FREE. SATISFACTION GUARANTEED. OR MONEY REFUNDED. PLEASE REMEMBER I AM DOING THIS TO BUILD UP A PERMANENT BUSINESS. COME EARLY IN THE MORNING AND EARLY IN THE WEEK AND YOU WILL BE SURE TO GET WAITED ON.

This "Stevens" sale is an advertising proposition pure and simple—your advantage is a superior grade of goods at a special low price—my profit is making 500 new acquaintances and winning their confidence.

Stevens mountings are the best in the world—they occupy the same position in the optical trade as "Rogers Bros., 1847" do in the silver line, and "Walsham" do in the watch business.

SUCH A STARTLING ANNOUNCEMENT no doubt makes you ask if it is absolutely bonafide and if so why I do it. The whole story is this. I have decided to make this unheard of sacrifice of regular $3.50 and $5.00 gold-filled glasses at $1 for balance of week to gain the full support and patronage of Connelville people and thus build up an extensive optical business. The lenses are the same I sell in my regular lines, every one fully guaranteed, and I use just as much care in fitting your eyes. Difficult cases a specialty.

Headaches and nervousness and other troubles far remote from the eye are oftentimes the direct result of an eye strain which if corrected with the proper glasses would give immediate relief. It is not necessary for the eye to be sore to indicate the need of glasses. In many cases the eye may be perfectly healthy, and glasses may be needed for the reasons which are only apparent to the physician and skilled eye-specialist.
